Clinical Experience

Since 1966 I have worked as a psychologist in both the public and private sectors. During the last 14 years I have concentrated almost entirely on Court work where I have carried out psychological assessments of whole families-adults and children, presenting reports to the Courts and giving evidence as an Expert Witness. I am instructed by solicitors, and local authorities in criminal and civil proceedings.

I undertake therapeutic interventions as a family therapist, counsellor and family mediator.

I have always split my working time between paid and voluntary work. I have generally concentrated on working in charities involving children and families where I have usually served as a board member.
